Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Request for Continued Examination (RCE)

On April 11, 2005, the Applicant filed a Request for Continued Examination (RCE). The RCE has been accepted, and a new action follows below.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 5-6, 16, 18 and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ballard (6,032,137).

Ballard discloses a method and corresponding system for processing and storing receipts comprising producing a plurality of paper receipts related to said plurality of credit card transactions such that each of said plurality of paper receipts comprise machine-readable data which identify each of said plurality of credit card financial transactions, each of said plurality of paper receipts comprises an endorsement by a representative of said plurality of purchasers to confirm each of said plurality of credit card financial transactions, optically scanning each of said plurality of paper receipts for producing an electronic representation of each of said plurality of paper receipts including said endorsement and for reading said machine-readable data on said paper receipt such that said machine-readable data is recognized, and electronically storing said electronic representation of said paper receipt utilizing said recognized machine-readable data so as to be organized for electronic retrieval based on said machine-readable data (col.3, lines 32-67; col.5, line 32 to col.6, line 12; and col.7, lines 5-30); printing said paper receipt with a printer operable for providing said machine-readable data on said paper receipt (col.5, line 32 to col.6, line 12); an endorsement is a signature (col.5, line 36 to col.6, line 12); and data comprises respective credit card number, date of purchase, and amount of purchase (col.3, lines 32-67; col.5, line 32 to col.6, line 12; and col.7, lines 5-30).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 2-4, 7-15, 17, and 19-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ballard in view of Cruse (2002/0010659).

Ballard discloses the invention substantially as claimed; however, Ballard does not disclose data comprising machine-readable bar codes or textual print by OCR, providing credit card transaction information over the internet to said plurality of purchasers with an electronic presentation of the receipt, providing a web site on the internet which provides transaction information and a viewable copy of said plurality of receipts, or a password known by purchaser. Cruse teaches a method and corresponding system for viewing receipts comprising data comprising machine-readable bar codes and textual print by OCR (p.5, 61—may use any type of scanner), providing credit card transaction information over the internet to said plurality of purchasers with an electronic presentation of the receipt (p.5, 61), providing a web site on the internet which provides transaction information and a viewable copy of said plurality of receipts (p.5, 61), and a password known by purchaser (p.5, 61). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate comprising machine-readable bar codes or textual print by OCR, providing credit card transaction information over the internet to said plurality of purchasers with an electronic presentation of the receipt, providing a web site on the internet which provides transaction information and a viewable copy of said plurality of receipts, and a password known by purchaser, as taught by Cruse into the invention disclosed by Ballard, to provide a user with alternative means to access a copy of their paper receipt online.

Art Unit: 3624
